To Put in Words

Author's Notes:

It\'s just a drabble but I hope you like it! Merry Ficmas!

Wide, girlish blue eyes.

He finds it hard to look away.

Wild, unruly waves that danced along his shoulders.

His fingers twitch with the urge to run his fingers through it.

You could see his front teeth from space, but that smile could put any star to shame.

His heart picks up speed.

An intelligence that most believe isn't there.

He could listen to him talk forever about the odd things he's learned over the years

He hated the fact that it was difficult talk back.

How could he find the words when he couldn't make sense of the feelings?
